Program of Study Information

Each Program of Study is unique and may contain the following component parts:

- Core courses are essential credit courses required in the Program of Study.
- Some programs include Elective(s). Electives are credit courses which are curriculum components of a Program of Study intended to supplement, not replace, any part of the program core. Electives present students with the choice and opportunity to vary their curriculum according to individual interests. Electives within Programs of Study may specify discipline and or level of study conditions, but do not restrict students to a prescribed list of specific courses.
- Options are credit courses which are curriculum components of a Program of Study. They provide students with greater specificity of knowledge within a field of study. Options differ from electives: student choice of options is restricted to a prescribed list of specific courses published by the program.
